

Koala Phascolarctos cinereus

When to look:

Year-round; usually breeds Aug-Feb

Unmistakable arboreal (tree-dwelling) marsupial with large furry ears and a prominent black nose. Its fur is thick and ash grey, or grey-brown on the dorsal side, with an off-white/pale yellow underside.

Koalas from Australia's southern regions are larger than that of their northern counterparts, with head-body length ranging from 72-78cm

Image courtesy of GrahamPics1, Flickr CC